VITAL SIGNS

A compendium of facts and figures of interest to the money wise.

Going Rates at U.S. banks & savings associations

Inflation may be hiding under a blanket of low oil prices.

"The signs for inflation are there," said Barry Lind, chairman of Lind-Waldock, the nation's largest discount futures brokerage firm. "The money supply is growing, the U.S. dollar is lower in value, lower interest rates are heating up the demand for goods and services and the world has yet to deal with the burgeoning Third World debt."

Forecast: Inflation will heat up by the end of the year.

— The Consumer Price Index should rise to an annualized rate of 4.5%, up from the 1.88% seen over the last 12 months.

— While the Meyers Report thinks that there is still more room for decline, interest rates in the trading markets are getting close to the bottom.

However, in no case is a meaningful rate rise seen for the next six months.

— Interest rates on consumer savings instruments should continue their downward momentum. However, although interest rate averages declined a significant number of institutions across the U.S. are raising their rates.

— Home mortgage rates will continue to show slight increases for the next 30 days, because of the heavy demand for new home and refinance mortgages.

Mortgages: Across the country, fixed-rate mortgages inched upward for the third week in a row. The average rate for 30-year fixed-rate mortgages gained to 10.08% from last week's 10.05%. The average on adjustable mortgages dropped to 8.38%.

The Great Christian Science Monitor® News Service

Monitor Editor Katherine Fanning: ASNE President 1987-1988

Building on more than 75 years of distinguished reporting and commentary—marked by five Pulitzer Prizes—Editor Katherine Fanning has added exciting innovations to The Christian Science Monitor's tradition of journalistic excellence.

This year, as President of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Mrs. Fanning has become the first woman to hold that office in ASNE's 65-year history.

In defining the Monitor's priorities, Mrs. Fanning says:

"We consider the world our beat. We look for a context, for a vision of what might be ahead—probe some of the deeper dimensions of a story.

"We try to present that which is significant, without ponderous length. Yet we do aim for depth. We rarely look at a tragedy or at a major issue in the world without examining potential solutions."

Witness: "Children in Darkness," the exploitation of Third World children, the Monitor's major special series in June and July.

The Christian Science Monitor News Service delivers to publications worldwide a broad spectrum from the paper's daily files:

- News reporting with a fresh dimension, and in-depth analysis.
- Top international coverage.
- Penetrating commentary.
- Outstanding special series.
- Expert business, financial and economic coverage.
- Wide-ranging coverage of science, education, the arts, entertainment.
- Lively features.
- Editorial cartoons by the acclaimed Jeff Danziger, 1987 Pulitzer finalist.
- Superior graphics, charts, maps, photos and photo essays.

The Christian Science Monitor News Service—for quality, scope, impact and a special dimension on the U.S. and the world.

CREATORS SYNDICATE, INC.

A NEW STANDARD OF FREEDOM

CREATORS SYNDICATE, INC.

RICHARD S. NEWCOMBE
President and Chief Executive Officer

Dear Editor:

In January 1987, Creators Syndicate was only an idea. Today, it is a major syndicate.

At a time when it appeared there would be less competition among syndicates due to acquisitions, mergers and consolidations, Creators forged ahead with its revolutionary concept of granting ownership rights and short-term contracts to columnists and cartoonists. By offering freedom—backed by the very best sales, promotional and editorial staffs available—we are attracting the world's most popular creative talent.

The stronger our features list, the more freedom of choice it gives you, the nation's editors.

The first columnist to join Creators Syndicate was Ann Landers, who has been described in the World Almanac as "the most influential woman in America." She is also the most widely read columnist in the world.

Johnny Hart, whose comic strips "B.C." and "The Wizard of Id" appear in more newspapers than any other cartoonist's, was next to join when he moved "B.C." to Creators.

In June The Washington Post's Herb Block, who has been called "America's greatest editorial cartoonist," also came aboard.

And we are pleased to announce that Creators Syndicate is representing the new comic strip "Crankshaft" by Tom Batiuk, creator of the popular "Funky Winkerbean."

In addition, we are syndicating a new column for children, written by the editors of the respected Weekly Reader.

To these attractions we add a new food column, "The Light-Hearted Chef: Cooking American" by Neal Flaster, "The Winning Edge: Getting The Most Out Of Your Career," a column by Thomas E. Burdick and Charlene A. Mitchell, a serialization of the best seller "Be True To Your School" by noted columnist Bob Greene of the Chicago Tribune, and, of course, weekly one-shot articles and book excerpts.

Creators Syndicate extends its thanks to all of you for your overwhelming endorsement of this important endeavor. We have set a new standard of freedom, and it is only a matter of time before other major syndicates follow suit. Some are changing already.

With our mutual commitment to editorial excellence, we look forward to meeting your demand for the best in features for many years to come.

Sincerely,

Richard S. Newcombe

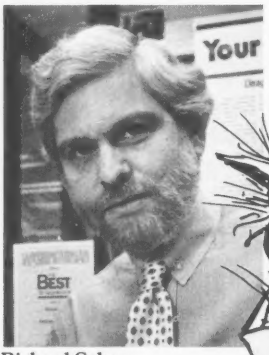
William Raspberry
Fair-minded comment on tough urban issues: education, drug abuse, housing, justice. "Confronts with courage the difficult, the intractable, the unfashionable." — Georgetown University. Twice weekly.

Edwin M. Yoder, Jr.
American traditions and politics are his main subjects. Commentary that is elegantly phrased from a wise and independent mind. Twice weekly.

Ellen Goodman
This Boston Globe columnist won a Pulitzer in 1980 and today is a favorite in 400 newspapers. Helps editorial pages attract hard-to-get readers, with a fresh, discerning look at contemporary issues. Lifestyle pages, too. Twice weekly.

Hobart Rowen
Shoe-leather reporting combined with strong opinion make "Economic Impact" a vital means of understanding complex economic-policy issues. Op ed or business page, twice weekly. Winner of two Gerald Loeb awards.

Charles Krauthammer
Winner of the 1987 Pulitzer Prize for distinguished commentary, after just two years as a weekly columnist. Winner of 1984 National Magazine Award for criticism. Original, nondoctrinaire.



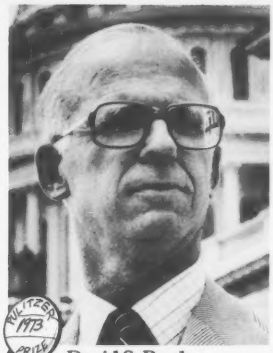
Richard Cohen
Iconoclastic and humanistic. A liberal whose personal, intimate style captivates readers. "Has mastered the art of arousing emotion without overlooking ideas." — Time. Three times weekly.

Colman McCarthy
A maverick liberal who stirs reader praise and ire. "A stubbornly independent free citizen . . . valuable and vital journalist." — Nat Hentoff. Twice weekly.

Geoffrey Moss
Add a touch of class to the look of your opinion pages with Mossprints. Conceptual graphics on issues in the news. Ten timely drawings each month from one of the nation's top illustrators.

Lou Cannon
Oval Office insight from the Washington Post's chief White House correspondent. Once-weekly commentary, by the Reagan biographer who knows him best.

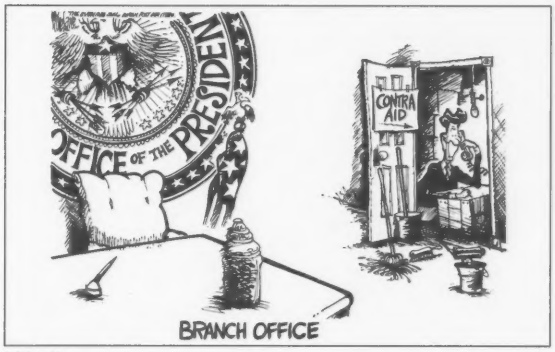
George F. Will
Probably the most recognized commentator in America today, Will's column is a fixture on 470 editorial pages. Conservatism with a kindly face. Twice weekly.



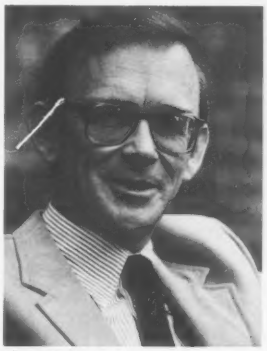
David S. Broder
The best political commentary from the nation's best newspaper political reporter. His twice-weekly column is carried by more than 300 papers. A must in '88.

Dana Summers
Sprightly, bright and slightly to the right, this Orlando Sentinel cartoonist is a favorite with readers. Some of his positions take readers by surprise, but always with grace and style. Four a week.

Philip Geyelin
Former editorial page editor of the Washington Post, now editor-in-residence at Johns Hopkins Foreign Policy Institute, he writes weekly on foreign affairs. Readers get an informed head start on global issues.

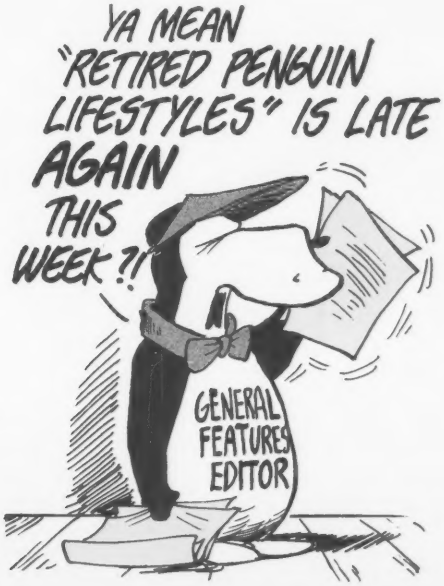


Mike Lane
Nothing "neo" about this Baltimore Evening Sun cartoonist: He's a liberal who makes his point with clarity and wit. Sigma Delta Chi winner. Four cartoons a week.



Neal Peirce
This 1986 American Political Science Association award-winner reports on grass-roots America. "No one pays such close attention to the American city." —James Rouse. Weekly, with optional illustration.

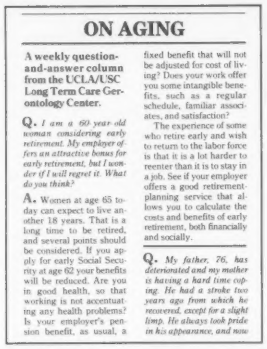
Eleanor Randolph
A new (September '87) column by the Washington Post's media reporter follows the foibles of the news business as it copes with Irangate, Hartburn, and other trying issues that have readers in a dither. Once weekly.



Computer Report
Bytes, MS-DOS and all the rest become clear in these newsy weekly reports from T.R. Reid, Denver correspondent for the Washington Post. Author of "The Chip" and builder of his own home computer, Reid also is on the cutting edge of PC-industry trends.

Kenneth R. Harney
Hard national news puts "The Nation's Housing" column ahead of everyone in real-estate reporting and commentary. Weekly, with optional illustration.

Phyllis C. Richman
A sumptuous weekly food column by the Washington Post's critic. "Richman's Table" provides an essay on the people and trends making national food news; a recipe; and "Tabletalk," a mini-feature of briefs and gossip.



ON AGING

A weekly question-and-answer column from the UCLA/USC Long Term Care Gerontology Center.

Q. I am a 60-year-old woman considering early retirement. My employer offers an attractive bonus for early retirement, but I wonder if I will regret it. What do you think?

A. Women at age 65 today can expect to live another 18 years. That is a long time to be retired, and several points should be considered. If you apply for early Social Security at age 62 your benefits will be reduced. Are you in good health, so that working is not accentuating any health problems? Is your employer's pension benefit, as usual, a fixed benefit that will not be adjusted for cost of living? Does your work offer you some intangible benefits, such as a regular schedule, familiar associates, and satisfaction?

The experience of some who retire early and wish to return to the labor force is that it is a lot harder to reenter than it is to stay in a job. See if your employer offers a good retirement-planning service that allows you to calculate the costs and benefits of early retirement, both financially and socially.

Q. My father, 76, has deteriorated and my mother is having a hard time coping. He had a stroke two years ago from which he recovered, except for a slight limp. He always took pride in his appearance, and now

On Aging
A weekly research-based column that answers financial, social and medical questions about aging. Authoritative q&a from the USC/UCLA Long Term Care Gerontology Center.

Book World
The Washington Post's acclaimed Book World Service offers both best-seller and undiscovered titles. Daily and Sunday-supplement reviews, plus literary features, to help strengthen locally written book review sections. Now offered high-speed.

Jane Bryant Quinn
Her twice-weekly personal-finance column has more than 200 newspaper clients. Helps consumers manage money. Hancock Award winner, lecturer, author, TV reporter—a recognized and trusted by-line.

Dr. Jean Mayer
The definitive word on nutrition from the president of Tufts University and his colleague, dietitian Jeanne Goldberg. Two "Food for Thought" columns a week—one an essay, the other q&a—help people live longer, healthier lives.

Bloom County
Berke Breathed's "Bloom County" won the 1987 Pulitzer Prize for editorial cartooning. More than 1,000 daily, Sunday & college papers say this is the strip of the decade.

Tom Shales
Funny and often acerbic forays into the mysterious world of television by this Washington Post critic complement local coverage. "In the world of daily TV criticism, he's alone at the top."—Channels. Twice weekly.

Video Review
This weekly VCR column provides equipment and consumer news in addition to reviews of the latest tapes. Excerpted weekly from the nation's leading video magazine.

A syndicated service from

American Health
The magazine that won a 1985 National Magazine Award for general excellence for its "lively and credible blend of news and service journalism." We excerpt twice weekly—one an incisive article, the other a set of groundbreaking health "shorts."

SPECIAL SERVICE

PRIMARY Color

PRIMARY COLOR edited by Harriet Choice
- Travel Package — one lead and three supporting columns monthly
- Home Package — one lead and three supporting columns monthly
- Food Package — weekly service from The Dallas Morning News

Primary Color is a monthly package of superior newspaper color and feature stories dedicated to providing quality and convenience for editors.

Visual impact and the reader appeal of color art (also appropriate for black and white conversion) are paramount concerns in the industry today. This pairing of words and pictures can either highlight or supplement your present selections in designated sections, general feature sections or roto.

Primary Color delivers a service to meet your primary needs: good reading enhanced by good color.

In January, when we began the syndication of Jeane Dixon's Your Horoscope and predictions, we couldn't have had a more auspicious beginning to the year! And subsequent events supported that belief.

For Universal Press Syndicate, its subsidiaries, Universal Licensing and Trexler Industries, and its publishing affiliate, Andrews, McMeel and Parker, 1987 has been a record-setting year of growth and accomplishment. These new levels were achieved only with the support of newspapers and their readers.

— The young Primary Color service, featuring quality writing and color photography for Travel, Home and, now, Food sections, is proving to be an attractive tool for section editors looking for exciting, original perspectives. Universal's commitment to this full-color service highlighting originality (we sent L.J. Davis to Africa) and quality writing (Charles Kuralt wrote an original piece on the South) has been received enthusiastically by newspapers across the country.

— Universal's lineup for op/ed pages continues to provide much of the strongest commentary for newspapers, and the names are favorites among readers, too. Dick Reeves, Jack Kilpatrick, Mary McGrory, Bill Buckley, Jeff Greenfield, Gee Gee Geyer, and Bob Maynard are only a few from a list that supplies bright and incisive commentary.

— Our offerings for the comics pages set the standard for popularity, freshness and quality. The phenomenal success of Calvin and Hobbes and the remarkable growth of The Far Side enabled them to join Doonesbury, Ziggy, Tank McNamara, Herman, Cathy and For Better or For Worse on a select list of readers' favorite comic features. A Chicago Tribune comics survey placed five Universal features in the top five, and a Sacramento Bee poll placed four Universal art features in the top four.

We can proudly claim to provide features for all your readers. Youngsters can begin with Betty Debnam's award-winning The Mini Page, and adults can appreciate the wide range of writing and art, columns and personalities distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

All of us at Universal are fully aware that without the strong support and confidence you've shown us through the years, our efforts would have no impact. For that support, we thank you.

The Changing Times Financial Service

The best in personal-finance features, available free to all AP members

Editors, if your paper is a member of the Associated Press, you can offer your readers a full array of feature articles from Kiplinger's Changing Times magazine, the leader in personal finance journalism for 40 years. Every month more than 1.3 million subscribers turn to Changing Times magazine for advice on money management, taxes, careers, investments, insurance, and more.

As an AP member you too can give your readers the information they need to make better decisions about managing their money. Information to help them lead richer, more satisfying lives.

Here's a sample of articles that have been available through the Changing Times Financial Service in recent months:

Car Insurance: Cut the Cost of Your Coverage

The Dollar Side of Divorce

Vacation Homes: How to Cope with the New Tax Rules

53 Stocks that Always Pay

Start-up Help for Your Business

Bargaining in Bangkok

This is how the Changing Times Financial Service works: Every weekend AP sends out a package from Changing Times with three feature articles totaling 2,500 words. The articles travel on AP's high-speed wire, DataStream, the AP Newsfeature wire and by AP mail as camera-ready copy. There's nothing to order, no additional fees to pay. All you have to do is select the articles you want to use.

For more information on how your paper can take advantage of the Changing Times Financial Service, call Patricia Mertz at Changing Times (202) 887-6589, or Dan Perkes at AP (212) 621-1821. At your request, we'll also send you a Changing Times Financial Service logo to use with the copy.
